

	Current Actions	What's working well	Areas for Improvement
Response to the Cry of the Earth	Humanity must realize that we are "guardians" of creation, and only through active and responsible citizenship can we hear the cry of the earth and, through cooperation, find and implement a response that translates into concrete actions to safeguard creation.	Humans are becoming aware (especially due to climate change) that the earth is a gift from God and that they are called to respect and safeguard it before reaching the point of no return.	The areas for improvement, in my opinion, are: using the earth's resources responsibly, including through equitable redistribution among all peoples. Continue to inform and educate in order to act responsibly and synergistically.
Response to the Cry of the Poor	Promote integral ecology that considers the connection between environmental care and social justice, recognizing that environmental degradation affects the most vulnerable populations the most.	An awareness and consciousness in listening to and responding to the needs of the poor, understanding that their suffering is closely linked to the ecological crisis.	Awareness of the connection between the environment and poverty, promoting a culture of respect and care for our "common home."
Ecological Economics	To work for a more just and sustainable world, where no one is left behind and where environmental protection is closely linked to social justice.	The birth and evolution of a development model that is gradually listening to the cry of creation and the poor.	Listen without indifference to the cry of creation and the poor.
Adoption of Sustainable Lifestyles	Sustainable lifestyles to reduce environmental impact and promote social well-being.	The beginning of a journey that requires awareness, commitment, and concrete action at the individual, community, and global levels.	Participate in awareness-raising and sustainability promotion activities in your community, support local initiatives, and foster collaboration between citizens and institutions: Respond to the cry of the Earth. Respond to the cry of the poor. Develop an ecological economy. Adopt sustainable lifestyles. Promote ecological education.

			Promote ecological spirituality. Engage communities.
Ecological Education	Inform and educate on sustainable behavior and awareness of the relationship between the environment and society.	School and community projects for sustainability and the adoption of an eco-friendly lifestyle.	Promoting reduction, reuse and recycling, energy and water saving, the adoption of sustainable transport and responsible consumption.
Ecological Spirituality	Awareness and the connection between the Earth's environmental crisis and humanity's social	The Earth's environmental crisis and humanity's social crisis: global; multidisciplinary; taught at all ages and at all levels of formal and non-formal education; aimed at the entire community; capable of connecting knowledge to action through a process of accountability; stimulating individual awareness, in order to "dare the sense of continuity that connects today's actions to tomorrow's consequences."	A more sustainable lifestyle, in managing natural resources, fighting pollution and promoting an ecological economy, greater community engagement and widespread ecological education to address environmental challenges.
Ecological Spirituality	Community resilience, valorization and empowerment	A message that leads to a journey that inspires and motivates everyone, who is integrated into their community and their environment.	A full spiritual awareness and consciousness of an integral ecology as a transition and conversion.
